Mission

Advancing the cause of economic justice for low-income families, individuals, and communities across the country.

Values

Because NCLEJ's Board and staff believe that this nation should strive to ensure that no one lives in poverty or is denied basic human rights, we subscribe to the following values:

Income Security: Income security is a basic goal and fundamental defense against poverty.

Access to Employment: Low-income people should have full opportunity to participate in all forms of education, training, and services to help them secure and retain living wage jobs.

Access to Health Care: All low-income people should receive affordable, comprehensive high-quality health care.

Fair Treatment: Fairness must be the foundation of government administration.

Public Accountability: Governmental decision-making and administration should be open, accessible, and responsive to constituents.

Access to Justice: Low-income people must have effective access to the justice system to challenge violations of their rights, secure effective relief, and gain greater public accountability.

Fair and Safe Workplace: All workers should be assured a safe workplace, a living wage, and full protection from discrimination.

Community Action: Community action and coalition building should be encouraged at the local, state, and national level as powerful strategies for social change.

Civic Participation: Low-income individuals and their communities should have a voice in shaping the public policies that affect their lives.

We are pleased to report on the continued accomplishments of the National Center for Law and Economic Justice (NCLEJ) on behalf of low-income individuals, families, and communities in 2012 and 2013.

We have made gratifying progress on critical issues facing those in need across America, including preserving access to food stamps, Medicaid, and cash assistance; securing fairness in workers' compensation for ranch and farm workers; helping to preserve access to affordable health care and child care; and ensuring that Americans with Disabilities Act protections are enforced meaningfully for residents of public housing suffering from asthma due to unaddressed moisture and the spread of black mold.

These efforts reflect our unyielding commitment to our core mission – increasing hope, opportunity, and dignity for those at the bottom of the economic ladder. We continue to achieve these results by using our legal skills with imagination and determination. We are now looking forward to an exciting and challenging future, as we hand the baton to a new Executive Director in 2014, and NCLEJ celebrates its 50th Anniversary in 2015.

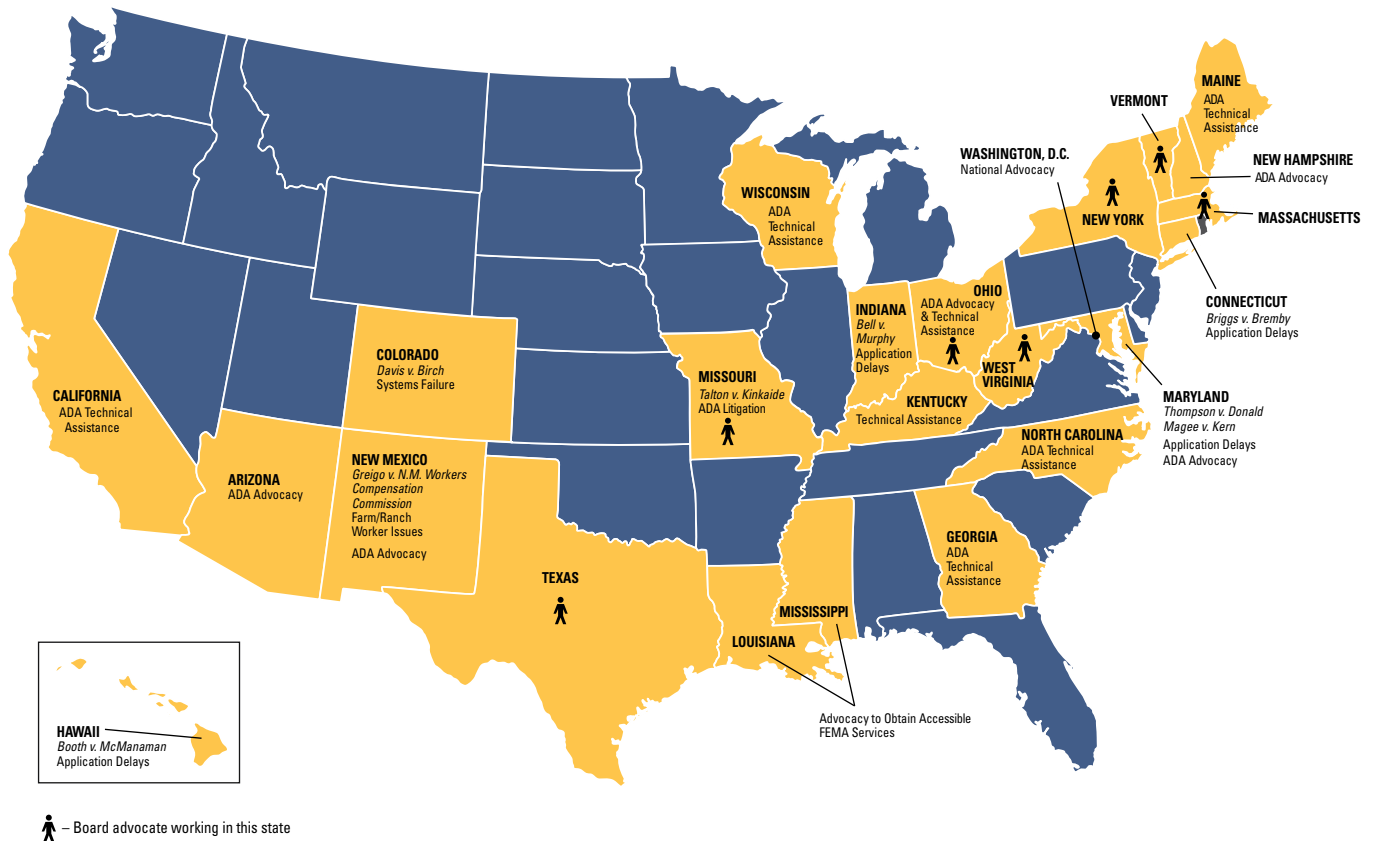

We will continue to explore new frontiers for our work, while assuring that NCLEJ's nearly five decades of work in the trenches to ensure fair implementation of public benefits programs – including greatly expanded health care coverage – continues unabated.

We thank everyone who has made this vital work possible: our extraordinarily dedicated staff and volunteers, a committed Board of Directors, the law firms that have provided invaluable pro bono assistance, our fellow public interest and legal services advocates across the country, and of course generous financial supporters. Many are listed in this report, and we thank them all.

Advocated in 24 States in 2012 and 2013

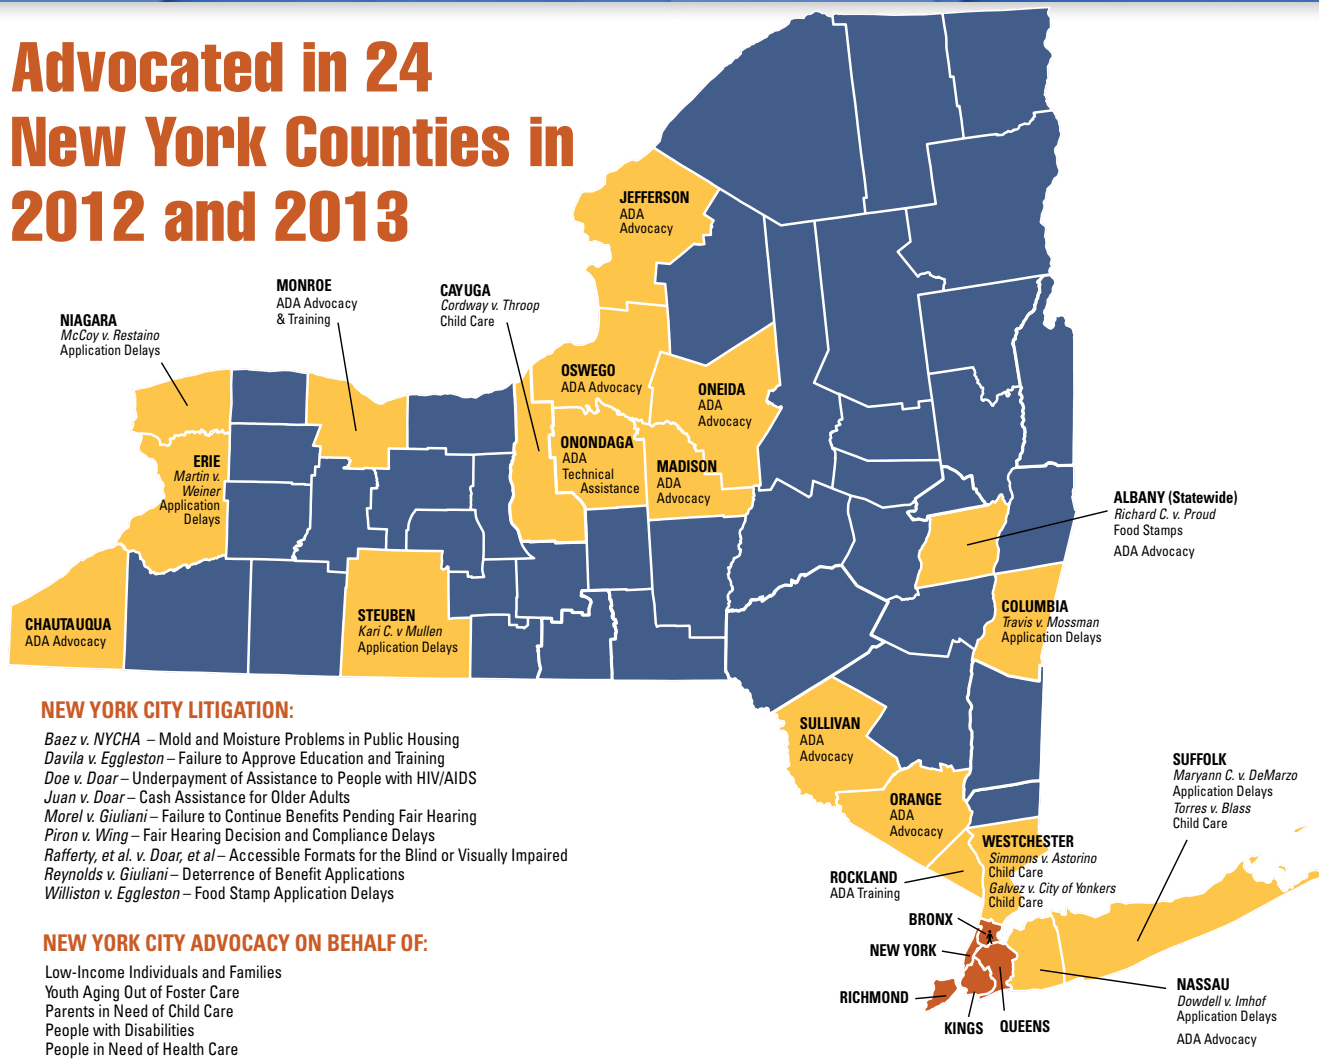

Spotlight: NCLEJ and Colleagues Achieve Speedier Payment of Food Stamps to Low-Income Hawaiians

Food stamp recipients in Hawaii are getting their crucial benefits even faster as the result of the final settlement in Booth v. McManaman, a federal class action. This case has already achieved a substantial improvement in agency performance, with thousands more low-income households receiving food stamps promptly, and the settlement requires further improvement in benefit processing times. NCLEJ joined Hawaii Applesseed Center for Law and Economic Justice and Alston Hunt Floyd & Ing as counsel in this case.

Advocated in 24 New York Counties in 2012 and 2013

NEW YORK CITY LITIGATION:

Baez v. NYCHA – Mold and Moisture Problems in Public Housing
Davila v. Eggleston – Failure to Approve Education and Training
Doe v. Doar – Underpayment of Assistance to People with HIV/AIDS
Juan v. Doar – Cash Assistance for Older Adults
Morel v. Giuliani – Failure to Continue Benefits Pending Fair Hearing
Piron v. Wing – Fair Hearing Decision and Compliance Delays
Rafferty, et al. v. Doar, et al – Accessible Formats for the Blind or Visually Impaired
Reynolds v. Giuliani – Deterrence of Benefit Applications
Williston v. Eggleston – Food Stamp Application Delays

NEW YORK CITY ADVOCACY ON BEHALF OF:

- Low-Income Individuals and Families
- Youth Aging Out of Foster Care
- Parents in Need of Child Care
- People with Disabilities
- People in Need of Health Care

Spotlight: NYC Housing Authority Agrees to Fix Rampant Mold and Moisture Problems

The New York City Housing Authority will address mold and excessive moisture in its apartments more quickly and thoroughly as a result of an agreement in a federal lawsuit filed by NCLEJ and the Natural Resources Defense Council on behalf of people with asthma living in public housing. Excessive moisture in NYCHA housing, home to 400,000 New Yorkers, has led to rampant and severe mold problems. Residents with asthma are particularly vulnerable to the ill effects of mold and moisture. Under the terms of the agreement, for the first time, NYCHA will be required to respond to mold and moisture complaints within strict time frames depending on the severity of the condition.
