NEW YORK PUBLIC BENEFITS PROGRAMS

Application Process

If your income has been reduced because you are out of work, are working reduced hours, or are quarantined, self-quarantined, or are self-isolating, you may qualify for various public benefit programs.

If you are having trouble with an application or need a paper application, contact your local Department of Social Services. Each county in the state has its own office, and the website and phone number for each is listed at: http://otda.ny.gov/workingfamilies/dss.asp.

There is a combined paper application to apply for SNAP, Cash Assistance, Medicaid, and other programs, available at https://otda.ny.gov/programs/applications/2921.pdf or through your local Department of Social Services. You may use that application to apply for Medicaid, only if you are also applying for SNAP or Cash Assistance. If you are solely applying for Medicaid, apply online at https://nystateofhealth.ny.gov/, or complete the paper application available at https://www.health.ny.gov/forms/doh-4220.pdf.

If possible, first try to apply for each program online, as this will ensure that your application is complete and received more quickly.

Cash Assistance

In New York, the Cash Assistance program is comprised of two programs, Family Assistance (FA) and Safety Net Assistance (SNA). These programs provide a monthly cash benefit via a card that works like a debit card.

Eligibility and the amount of cash benefits received is determined by a number of factors, including household size, income level, housing situation, type of income, and other resources or benefits received.

Medicaid

Medicaid provides free comprehensive health insurance for low-income adults and children. Medicaid covers hospitalizations, out-patient services, dental care, vision care, prescription coverage, personal care services, community-based long-term care services, nursing home stays and more.

There are different income eligibility guidelines for pregnant women, children, parents, and senior citizens. SSI and Cash Assistance recipients are automatically eligible for Medicaid. Visit https://www.health.ny.gov/health_care/medicaid/ to learn more about Medicaid eligibility guidelines.

Child Health Plus

Child Health Plus provides free or low-cost comprehensive health insurance for children, including both in-patient and out-patient services through a managed care plan. There are no deductibles, co-payments or co-insurance, but families may be responsible for a monthly premium depending on their income. To be eligible, one must be a New York State resident, under the age of 19, ineligible for Medicaid or Medicare, and their household’s income must be less than the levels listed at https://www.health.ny.gov/health_care/child_health_plus/eligibility_and_cost.htm.

To apply for Child Health Plus, visit https://nystateofhealth.ny.gov/, or call 1-800-698-4543.
Women, Infants and Children (WIC)

WIC provides vouchers that can be redeemed at WIC approved stores for the purchase of specific foods. Applicants are eligible for WIC if they are a pregnant woman, a child up to his/her 5th birthday, the mother of a baby that is up to 6 months of age, or fully or partially breastfeeding mother of a baby up to 1 year of age. Applicant must also be a resident of New York State.

Applicant must have been assessed for nutritional risk by a medical professional, and have an income below the level set by the federal government. For example, the income limit for a household of two is $2,607 a month. Additionally, a person or certain family members who participate in other benefits programs such as the SNAP and Medicaid automatically meet the income eligibility requirement.

For information about how to apply for WIC, visit https://www.health.ny.gov/prevention/nutrition/wic/how_to_apply.htm or call 1-800-522-5006.

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), also known as food stamps, provides funds to buy food to everyone who qualifies for the program. SNAP funds are distributed on a card that works like a debit card, and they can only be used to purchase food. You can apply for SNAP at your local Department of Social Services. In many cases, you will not need to go to the social services office in person, and will be able to apply for SNAP while complying with New York State’s PAUSE order. SNAP eligibility is based on income and savings compared to household size.

As an example, for a two-person household without earned income, the maximum monthly income for SNAP eligibility is $1,832, and for a two-person household with earned income, the maximum monthly income is $2,114. Visit https://www.ny.gov/services/apply-snap for additional income guidelines for further information on income eligibility.

If your income has been reduced because you are out of work, are working reduced hours, or are quarantined, self-quarantined, or are self-isolating, you may qualify for SNAP. You can receive both SNAP and other programs listed on this fact sheet, such as emergency sick leave, unemployment insurance, and temporary disability insurance, so long as your income and savings are below the limit for your household size.

In New York City, you can apply for SNAP online at https://a069-access.nyc.gov/accesshra/. In the rest of New York State, you can apply for SNAP online at https://mybenefits.ny.gov/mybenefits, or call 1-800-342-3009. You will need to complete an interview, but you can be interviewed over the phone.

Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) (Regular and Emergency)

HEAP provides financial assistance to low income households to help pay for energy expenses. Participants receive either a direct payment or a credit line with their heating/utility vendor. Eligibility is determined by household size and income. For example, to be eligible for HEAP, a one-person household can have a maximum gross monthly income of $2,494, and a three-person household has a maximum of $4,030.

Households that receive Cash Assistance or SNAP, and SSI “live alone” households are automatically eligible for HEAP. See https://otda.ny.gov/programs/heap/ for additional information on eligibility.

To apply, visit https://mybenefits.ny.gov/mybenefits/ to apply, or contact your HEAP Local District contact, available at https://otda.ny.gov/programs/heap/contacts/. In light of the COVID-19 pandemic, HEAP in-person interview requirements have been waived and interviews may now be conducted over the phone. Applications and supporting documents may be submitted by mail or fax (or mobile application, where available).
